WASHINGTON, May 3.

THE WAR IN VIRGINIA.

Your correspondent sends the following from Gen. Grant's headquarters, dated Culpepper, May 2d; The public will no longer be disappointed in the completion of early stirring news from this quarter.

The announcement can at last be made with certainty and safety that the Army of the Potomac is on the eve of the opening of the Summer campaign. There is ground for the belief that the commencement of offensive movements will be immediately followed by decisive events, and that if Lee accepts battle when Gen. Grant offers it, a general action may occur in the close vicinity of a few days. The spirit and Grant's plan of operation is already plainly indicated by certain preliminary movements in the army and elsewhere. It will be found as remarkable for boldness and ingenuity of conception and for vigor and rapidity of execution as the movement by which he carried his army to the rear of Vicksburg. Here as there his main reliance will be upon hard marching and hard fighting.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

The Richmond Examiner, of the 2d, under the up ion of "A Stupid Report," says that but for the fact, that many well meaning people believe it, we should not think it worth while to contradict the report that Richmond is to be evacuated. The safe foundation of the report, was the proposal to remove one of the bureaus in the Treasury Department to Columbia; but this has been recently abandoned. Everything every department, whether they had been sent with supplies for General Steele, were attacked within thirty miles of Pine Bluff by a large force of rebels, supposed to be under command of Gen. Marmaduke, and after brave resistance were overcome, with the total loss of their property and men, those not killed being taken prisoners. The rebels attacked Pine Bluff the day after the fight, by a small party who made their escape from the enemy, and reported Marmaduke to have taken one thousand prisoners and all the artillery with the command, being seven pieces, of different sizes. At this point we hope that further news may be better.

I learn by the steamer Prairie State that the enemy are selling cotton in Shreveport, on Red River, below Coushey, completely destroying the navigation of that stream, thereby cutting off communication by water with Gen. Steele's command.

The Rebel General Charles McDonnel arrived here to-day from Vicksburg, bringing up 120 wounded from Grand Rivers. She left on at Memphis. She leaves to-morrow for Louisville.

The following letter was sent from Gen. T. E. G. Ransom to the Chicago Journal for publication. That paper having refused to insert it, the Cairo News published it to-day:

Messrs. Editors Chicago Journal:

I notice in your paper of the 19th inst. a letter from Grand Rivers, La., dated April 10th, from your correspondent signing himself "Hawk Eye," who, in speaking of the battle of the 8th, says: "Gen. Smith, Chief of Gen. Banks' Staff, was on the field and took direction of movements," etc. I would state that I received no orders from Gen. Banks on that day, and so far as I know and believe he was not responsible for the advance. I was in command of forces engaged. I make this correction as an act of justice to the distinguished and meritorious officer who endowed himself to the Army of the Gulf by his gallant conduct in the battles of the 8th and 9th inst. Respectfully yours,

(Signed) T. E. G. RANSOM, Brig. Gen. U.S.V.

[Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

CAIRO, May 3.

It is a curious circumstance that while the private correspondence of the soldiers at Fort Pillow and elsewhere, the streets of Vicksburg, Natchez and Memphis may be seen graced by Confederate officers on street parade.

There are frequent instances of notorious Secessionists allowed to run at large, and some of them released, by the influence brought to bear on the military authorities. My information comes from good sources, and reaches hardly so public a circle.

For—Less Arrival.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The steamships Edinburg and Cleopatra, from Liverpool, and Vanderbilt, from New Orleans, have arrived. No late news.

shall be made for public and private property destroyed by the soldiers of their regiments while encamping in the city of Nashville on veteran volunteers: 6th Kentucky cavalry, 6th Ohio cavalry, 2d Ohio cavalry, 69th Ohio infantry, 41st Ohio infantry, 92d Pennsylvania cavalry, and 19th Indiana infantry.

The House, by a unanimous vote, passed the bill reported by Mr. Schenck, from the Military Committee, raising soldiers' pay to $16 per month. Compare with $13, Sergeants to $20, Orderly Sergeants to $24, and Sergeant Majors' to $26. The bill is the same as that of which a synopsis was given last Friday, excepting the sections relating to colored troops.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Senate Naval Committee is considering the propriety of increasing the payments to contractors for iron clad vessels, in order that they may be completed.

Much damage has been done in this vicinity by a violent rain storm which commenced this afternoon and lasted all night. All army operations are necessarily suspended.

The Senate Naval Committee will endeavor to settle upon the site for the new Navy Yard before adjourning.

It is expected that the Committee on Elections will submit a report upon the Hale correspondence before the House adjourns.

The District of Columbia will require 2,000 more men to complete all calls under the draft.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The special to the World says: Secretary Chase appeared before the House Naval Committee to-day, a proposition to increase the pay of engineers was discussed. The Secretary will approve and applaud his action, so it is hoped will the Confederate government."

Senator Pomeroy's resignation speech with commissary profuse, and Senator Hale's long-great speech in Yankee Congress."

The Richmond Enquirer of April 25th has information that Burnside is moving. The intelligence is brought by a deserter, who says that the 9th corps is going to Alexandria. The Enquirer thinks more probable that Yorktown is its destination. His force is set down at 17,000, and 8,000 negro soldiers. The same paper says that the Yankee Navy Department has fallen heavily on the blockade operators. Indeed it may be considered to have put an official stop to running the blockade for some time. There is a difficulty of getting insurance, and for cotton will prevent for several months the accumulation of sufficient supply. The destruction of property is estimated at from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in gold.

The Enquirer has lengthy article on the Fort Pillow massacre, sneering at the indignation of the Northern press and saying, if confederate prisoners are massacred, only the number of Federals will be immediately put to death.

The Examiner of the 25th, concludes an article on the military situation in Virginia, as follows: "It is time to hold our own in Virginia till the enemy ended the North's power, for mischief will everywhere be gone. If we lose, the South's capacity for resistance will be broken. The Confederate government has more power to keep its place in Virginia employed with energy and consistency, and this is the last year of the war, whichever wins." The same paper says a most serious scarcity of provisions exists in Virginia, both south and north of the James River, and not only in cities and towns but throughout the interior.

The same paper says four army corps have been sent from Chattanooga to reinforce Grant. The rebel General Wirt Adams telegraphs from Yazoo City that he burned the gunboat which he captured on the 22d, after taking out her armament.

The Richmond Examiner has private advices from Washington that a member of the Lincoln Government stated that if the North takes Richmond, it could still afford to let Johnston penetrate to the Ohio, and trust to the popular sentiment to prosecute the war. The Examiner adds: that the capture of Richmond is the one and incontestable condition of the continuation of the war by the North beyond the coming campaign. The same paper says it no longer doubts but that the enemy is about to make serious demonstrations on the Peninsula. The Examiner says that the best index to the sentiment of Lieut. General Holmes, lately commanding in the Mississippi Department, to the command at Richmond of the reserve forces of North Carolina, composed of men between 17 and 50 years of age, and that Major General Ransom assumed command in place of General Early, who goes to the Maryland line.

The Inquirer reports the evacuation of Suffolk by our forces. The rebel journals chuckle over the fact that the French vessels were obliged to leave James River, the stipulated time having elapsed, with little if any tobacco. The Enquirer comments upon a recent speech of Vice President Stephens, says that he has disappointed his admirers and friends only to gratify his enemies and those of his country; for no one thing attired any expression of hope or confidence in the success of our cause, and can point to no word or material act that he has rendered the cause.

THE FORT PILLOW MASSACRE.

The report of the Committee on the Conduct of the War, concerning the Massacre at Fort Pillow, has already been prepared, and will be made to Congress as soon as evidence, which is briefly summed up, can be written out. They will show the rebel officers are fully responsible for what occurred, having encouraged instead of attempting to restrain the soldiery on the day when the Fort was carried by storm. 300 or 400 of the garrison who calmly asked quarter were murdered. The next day the rebels returned to the Fort and killed in cold blood the wounded and all others. They cut off the heads of white men, women and children, as well as men. In hospitals that were burnt. Wounded men were carried down to tent floors and the tents then set on fire. A black boy who was carried off by a rebel, with a few soldiers from the Fort by order of his superior officers, and shot [illegible] testified that Forrest chuckled in their hearing to having a rebel loss of 20 to the various assaults upon the Fort.

General Hurlbut testified that he found Fort Pillow garrisoned, when he assumed command of the district, as it had been, with the exception of five or six weeks, since. It was taken possession of by Gen. Sturgis, and that he found them, on examination, to be the same men
